14 _____)

15 TO THE HONORABLE ROSLYN O. SILVER, UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT:

16 Petitioner Virgil Lee Lindsey, Jr., who is confined in the Arizona State Prison, 17 Hualapai Unit, in Kingman, Arizona, has filed a pro se Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus 18 pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254 (Doc. 1). Respondents filed an Answer (Doc. 13), and despite 19 having an opportunity to do so, Petitioner has not filed a traverse.

20 BACKGROUND¹

21 On November 7, 2004, Petitioner was arrested for criminal damage and aggravated 22 assault. (Exh. A.) Officers conducted a search incident to arrest and found crack cocaine in 23 Petitioner's pocket. (Id.) Petitioner was then admitted into the hospital after complaining 24 of severe knee pain and a broken toe. (Id.) Upon release from the hospital, Petitioner threw 25 his crutches down, pulled off his knee brace, and tried to escape from the police officers who

26
27 _____
28 ¹ Unless otherwise noted, the following facts are derived from the exhibits submitted with Doc. 13 – Respondents' Answer.

1 were escorting him. (Id.) In the process, he tried to grab a taser gun from one of the officers 2 and threw a chair which struck a second officer. (Id.) He continued to kick his legs and 3 “flail[] around” as the officers took him into custody. (Id.)

4 Almost 2 years later, on November 20, 2006, Petitioner entered a department store, 5 took several pairs of denim jeans, and exited the store without paying. (Exh. B.) When he 6 was approached by officers, Petitioner dropped the jeans and ran through the store parking
7 lot. (Id.) He approached a man and physically tried to gain control of his car. (Id.)
8 Petitioner was chased off and then approached an elderly woman, again trying to gain control 9 of her car. (Id.) Petitioner was ultimately apprehended by several onlookers, store security, 10 and off-duty police officers. (Id.) He continued to struggle and attempted to hit one of the 11 onlookers when the police finally arrived and took him into custody. (Id.)

12 On December 4, 2006, Petitioner was charged by information in both matters. (Exhs.
13 C, D.) In the 2004 matter, under Maricopa County Cause Number 2004-132507, Petitioner 14 was charged with one count each of aggravated assault, a class 6 felony; resisting arrest, a 15 class 6 felony; possession or use of narcotic drugs, a class 4 felony; and escape in the second 16 degree, a class 5 felony. (Exh. C.) In the 2006 matter, under Maricopa County Cause 17 Number CR 2006-171572, Petitioner was charged with one count each of shoplifting, a class 18 6 felony; attempted theft of means of transportation, a class 4 felony; attempted robbery, a 19 class 4 felony; and assault, a class 2 misdemeanor. (Exh. D.)

20 On May 18, 2007, Petitioner pled guilty in the 2004 matter to one count of aggravated 21 assault, a class 6 felony with one prior felony conviction, and one count of possession or use 22 of narcotic drugs, a class 4 felony with one prior felony conviction (Counts 1 & 3). (Exh.
23 E.) The State dismissed Counts 2 and 4. (Id.) Petitioner was sentenced to concurrent 24 presumptive terms of 1.75 and 4.5 years’ imprisonment with credit for 159 days of 25 presentence incarceration. (Exh. H.)

26 The same day, Petitioner pled guilty in the 2006 matter to one count of attempted theft 27 of means of transportation, a class 4 felony with one prior felony conviction, and one count 28 of attempted robbery, a class 5 felony with two prior felony convictions (Counts 2 & 3).

1 (Exh. F.) The State dismissed Counts 1 and 4. (Id.) Petitioner was sentenced to 2 presumptive terms of 4.5 and 5 years' imprisonment with Count 2 to be served consecutively
3 to the sentences imposed in the 2004 matter and Count 3 to be served consecutively to Count
4 2. (Exh. I.)

5 On October 5, 2007, Petitioner commenced his first PCR proceeding by filing a timely 6 PCR notice, claiming there had been a significant change in the law that would probably 7 overturn his conviction or sentence and arguing that his lawyer had been ineffective because 8 he did not advise Petitioner of "the legal procedures." (Exh. J.) Appointed counsel, 9 however, notified the trial court that she had reviewed the record and found no colorable 10 claim for post-conviction relief. (Exh. K.) The court then granted Petitioner a 45-day 11 extension to file his PCR petition. (Exh. L.) On June 13, 2008, six weeks after the deadline 12 had passed and a petition was not filed, the state court dismissed the PCR proceeding. (Exh.
13 M.) Petitioner did not file a petition for review in the Arizona Court of Appeals or Arizona
14 Supreme Court.

15 On August 29, 2008, Petitioner commenced his second PCR proceeding by filing an 16 untimely pro per PCR petition. (Exh. N.) In his petition, he asserted his Fifth, Sixth, and 17 Fourteenth Amendment rights were violated because: (1) he was denied a speedy trial; (2) 18 his counsel was rendered ineffective when she failed to "advise the court of the impending 19 expiration of time limits in [his] case"; (3) he did not enter into the plea agreement 20 knowingly, voluntarily, and intelligently; and (4) his prior felony convictions should not have 21 been used to enhance his sentences. (Id.) The state court dismissed Petitioner's PCR petition 22 on September 15, 2008, finding that his claims could not be raised in an untimely PCR 23 proceeding pursuant to Arizona Rule of Criminal Procedure Rule (Rule) 32.4(a). (Exh. O.)
24 Petitioner did not present any newly discovered material facts and failed to identify a 25 significant change in law that applied to his case. (Id.) The state court further found that 26 Petitioner was precluded from relief on his claims pursuant to Rule 32.2(a) because they 27 could have been raised in his prior Rule 32 proceeding. (Id.)

28

1 On September 29, 2008, Petitioner filed a petition for review in the Arizona Court of 2 Appeals. (Exh. P.) He argued that while his PCR petition was untimely, it presented newly 3 discovered material facts that would have changed his sentence pursuant to Rule 32.1(e) and 4 he was diligent in securing the newly discovered material facts. (Id.) Petitioner further 5 asserted that his Sixth Amendment right to a speedy trial and the effective assistance of 6 counsel was violated as well as his Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment rights to due process.
7 (Id.) The Arizona Court of Appeals denied review of the petition on December 8, 2009.
8 (Exh. S.) Petitioner did not file a petition for review in the Arizona Supreme Court.

9 On December 18, 2009, Petitioner filed a federal petition for writ of habeas corpus, 10 arguing that: (1) he was denied his speedy trial rights and counsel was ineffective for failing 11 to raise the speedy trial issue; and (2) he was coerced into entering the plea agreement, 12 received ineffective assistance of counsel, and was subjected to double jeopardy when his 13 sentences were enhanced by his prior felony convictions. (Exh. T.)

14 Respondents filed a limited answer, arguing that Petitioner's habeas petition should 15 be denied and dismissed with prejudice because: (1) it was untimely filed; (2) his speedy trial 16 claim was not cognizable on habeas review because it only challenged Arizona statutes and 17 rules of criminal procedure; and (3) his claims were procedurally defaulted because 18 Petitioner had belatedly raised them and the state court imposed a procedural bar to avoid 19 reaching their merits. (Exh. V.)

20 In response, Petitioner moved to withdraw his habeas petition so that he could 21 "properly seek[] to present issues to the final stage of state court accordingly." (Exh. W.)
22 On October 6, 2010, the court granted the motion and dismissed Petitioner's habeas petition
23 without prejudice. (Exhs. X, Y, Z.)

24 On January 3, 2011, Petitioner commenced his third PCR proceeding by filing an 25 untimely pro per PCR petition. (Exh. AA.) In his petition, he asserted: (1) trial counsel was 26 ineffective by "inducing" Petitioner to plead guilty when she knew, or should have known, 27 that Petitioner was "factually" innocent; (2) trial counsel was ineffective by "inducing"
28 Petitioner to plead guilty based on the "material misrepresentation" that he would be ordered

1 to serve concurrent sentences; (3) the state engaged in misconduct when the prosecutor
2 “materially misrepresented” to the court that Petitioner had engaged in violent behavior 3 resulting in the physical injury of several victims; (4) trial counsel was ineffective by “failing 4 to subject the prosecution to any adversarial testing ... resulting in guilty pleas and 5 aggravated prison sentences[] of an innocent citizen”; and (5) PCR counsel was ineffective
6 “insofar as [Petitioner’s] claims are deemed to be procedurally barred or precluded.” (Id.)
7 Petitioner characterized his claims as “newly discovered evidence” that demonstrated a 8 “fundamental miscarriage of justice.” (Id.)

9 The state court dismissed Petitioner’s PCR petition on January 7, 2011, finding that 10 Petitioner could not raise his ineffective assistance of counsel (IAC) and coercion claims in 11 an untimely or successive PCR petition pursuant to Rule 32.4(a). (Exh. BB.) Furthermore, 12 Petitioner had previously raised these claims in an unsuccessful PCR petition and was thus 13 precluded from raising them again in a successive petition pursuant to Rule 32.2(a)(2). (Id.)
14 Finally, in regards to Petitioner’s claimed “newly discovered evidence,” the state court found 15 that Petitioner had: (1) failed to state any facts, evidence, or law to support his prosecutorial
16 misconduct claim as required by Rule 32.5 and had not stated why the prosecutorial 17 misconduct would have changed his conviction or sentence; and (2) failed to explain how the 18 facts supporting his IAC claim were discovered after the trial or sentencing as required by 19 Rule 32.1(e)(1) or how Petitioner exercised due diligence in securing the newly discovered 20 evidence pursuant to Rule 32.1(e)(2). (Id.) The state court noted that the alleged newly 21 discovered evidence arose from events that took place four years prior to the filing of 22 Petitioner’s third PCR petition and Petitioner provided no adequate explanation as to why 23 they had just been discovered. (Id.)

24 On January 31, 2011, Petitioner filed a petition for review in the Arizona Court of 25 Appeals. (Exh. CC.) In his petition, he argued that the state court abused its discretion by:
26 (1) dismissing Petitioner’s claims as untimely when untimeliness was the direct result of the 27 ineffectiveness of “appellate” counsel; (2) “ignoring” his claim for ineffective assistance of 28 “appellate” counsel; (3) “ignoring” his right to an evidentiary hearing because he met the

1 narrow class of cases establishing cause and prejudice, actual innocence, and a fundamental 2 miscarriage of justice; and (4) “ignoring” this Court’s order allegedly preserving Petitioner’s 3 issues for obtaining state remedies. (Id.) The Court of Appeals denied review of the petition
 4 on December 4, 2012. (Exh. FF.) Petitioner did not file a petition for review in the Arizona
 5 Supreme Court.

6 On January 7, 2013, Petitioner filed the instant habeas petition. (Doc. 1.) In Ground 7 One, he alleges that the summary dismissal of his post-conviction claims as untimely or 8 procedurally barred violated his due process and equal protection rights. (Doc. 1 at 6.) In 9 Ground Two, he alleges a violation of his speedy trial, due process, and equal protection 10 rights under the Sixth and Fourteenth Amendments. (Doc. 1 at 7.) In Ground Three, he 11 alleges that he was denied the effective assistance of counsel in connection with the plea 12 agreement in violation of his Sixth Amendment rights. (Doc. 1 at 8.) On July 15, 2013, 13 Respondents filed an Answer. (Doc. 13.) Petitioner has not filed a traverse despite having 14 the opportunity to do so.

DISCUSSION

15 In their Answer, Respondents contend that Petitioner’s habeas petition is untimely 16 and, as such, must be denied and dismissed. The Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty 17 Act of 1996 (“AEDPA”) imposes a statute of limitations on federal petitions for writ of 18 habeas corpus filed by state prisoners. See 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1). The statute provides:

19 A 1-year period of limitation shall apply to an application for a writ of habeas 20 corpus by a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court. The 21 limitation period shall run from the latest of –

22 (A) the date on which the judgment became final by the conclusion of direct 23 review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review;

24 (B) the date on which the impediment to filing an application created by State 25 action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the applicant was prevented from filing by such State action;

26 (C) the date on which the constitutional right asserted was initially recognized 27 by the Supreme Court, if the right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or 28 (D) the date on which the factual predicate of the claim or claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence.

1 An “of-right” petition for post-conviction review under Arizona Rule of Criminal 2 Procedure 32, which is available to criminal defendants who plead guilty, is a form of “direct 3 review” within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1)(A). See Summers v. Schriro, 481 4 F.3d 710, 711 (9th Cir. 2007). Therefore, the judgment of conviction becomes final upon the 5 conclusion of the Rule 32 of-right proceeding, or upon the expiration of the time for seeking 6 such review. See id.

7 Additionally, “[t]he time during which a properly filed application for State post-8 conviction or other collateral review with respect to the pertinent judgment or claim is 9 pending shall not be counted toward” the limitations period. 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2); see Lott 10 v. Mueller, 304 F.3d 918, 921 (9th Cir. 2002). A post-conviction petition is “clearly pending 11 after it is filed with a state court, but before that court grants or denies the petition.” Chavis 12 v. Lemarque, 382 F.3d 921, 925 (9th Cir. 2004). A state petition that is not filed, however, 13 within the state’s required time limit is not “properly filed” and, therefore, the petitioner is 14 not entitled to statutory tolling. See Pace v. DiGuglielmo, 544 U.S. 408, 413 (2005). “When 15 a postconviction petition is untimely under state law, ‘that [is] the end of the matter’ for 16 purposes of § 2244(d)(2).” Id. at 414.

17 In Arizona, post-conviction review is pending once a notice of post-conviction relief 18 is filed even though the petition is not filed until later. See Isley v. Arizona Department of 19 Corrections, 383 F.3d 1054, 1056 (9th Cir. 2004). An application for post-conviction relief 20 is also pending during the intervals between a lower court decision and a review by a higher 21 court. See Biggs v. Duncan, 339 F.3d 1045, 1048 (9th Cir. 2003) (citing Carey v. Saffold, 22 536 U.S. 214, 223 (2002)). However, the time between a first and second application for 23 post-conviction relief is not tolled because no application is “pending” during that period.
 24 See id. Moreover, filing a new petition for post-conviction relief does not reinitiate a 25 limitations period that ended before the new petition was filed. See Ferguson v. Palmateer, 26 321 F.3d 820, 823 (9th Cir. 2003).

27 The statute of limitations under the AEDPA is subject to equitable tolling in 28 appropriate cases. See Holland v. Florida, 560 U.S. 631, —, 130 S.Ct. 2549, 2560, 177

1 L.Ed.2d 130 (2010). However, for equitable tolling to apply, a petitioner must show ““(1) 2 that he has been pursuing his rights diligently and (2) that some extraordinary circumstances
3 stood in his way”” and prevented him from filing a timely petition. Id. at 2562 (quoting Pace, 4 544 U.S. at 418).

The Court finds that Petitioner's Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus is untimely. Petitioner was sentenced under the plea agreement on July 3, 2007. (Exhs. E, F, H, I.) On October 5, 2007, Petitioner filed a timely notice of PCR. (Exh. J.) The state court, however, summarily dismissed the matter on June 13, 2008, after Petitioner failed to file a PCR petition. (Exh. M.) Petitioner did not file a petition for review from this summary dismissal in the Arizona Court of Appeals or the Arizona Supreme Court. Thus, Petitioner's state court conviction became final on July 14, 2008 – 31 days after the state court dismissed the PCR proceeding, because the statute was tolled during the time he could have filed a petition for review in the Arizona Court of Appeals.² See Ariz.R.Crim.P. 32.9(c) (“Within thirty days after the final decision of the trial court on the petition for post-conviction relief or the motion for rehearing, any party aggrieved may petition the appropriate appellate court for review of the actions of the trial court.”). The statute of limitations began to run on July 15, 2008 – one day after the 30-day period – and expired one year later – on July 15, 2009.

18 Petitioner’s commencement of a second PCR proceeding in August 2008 did not toll 19 the limitations period. The trial court dismissed Petitioner’s second PCR proceeding, finding 20 that Petitioner could not raise his claims in an untimely PCR proceeding and, additionally, 21 he was precluded from relief on his claims because they could have been raised in his prior 22 PCR proceeding. (Exh. O.) Because the state court ultimately dismissed the PCR notice as 23 untimely, the proceeding was not “properly filed” under 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2) and did not 24 toll the statute of limitations. See Pace, 544 U.S. at 414-17 (finding that post-conviction

² The end date fell on Sunday, July 13, 2008. Petitioner therefore had until Monday, July 14, 2008, to file an petition for review.

1 proceeding that is rejected by state courts on timeliness grounds is not “properly filed” under 2 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2)); Bonner v. Carey, 425 F.3d 1145, 1148-49 (9th Cir. 2005).

3 Likewise, Petitioner’s commencement of a petition for writ of habeas corpus in 4 December 2009 and third PCR proceeding in January 2011 did not toll the limitations period.
5 (Exhs. T, AA.) Both petitions were filed after the statute of limitations ended and could not 6 restart the expired 1-year limitations period. See Ferguson, 321 F.3d at 823 (“Like the 7 Eleventh Circuit, we hold that section 2244(d) does not permit the re-initiation of the [federal 8 1-year] limitations period that has ended before the state petition was filed.”); Jimenez v.
9 Rice, 276 F.3d 478, 482 (9th Cir. 2001) (finding federal habeas petitioner’s filing of state
10 post-conviction relief petition took place “well after the AEDPA statute of limitations ended” 11 and thus “resulted in absolute time bar to refiling [his federal habeas petition] after his state 12 claims were exhausted”). Moreover, even if filed before the expiration of the 1-year
13 limitations period, Petitioner’s federal habeas petition could not serve to toll the limitations 14 period because no tolling of the habeas limitations period results from the pendency of a 15 federal proceeding. See 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2) (“The time during which a properly filed 16 application for State post-conviction or other collateral review with respect to the pertinent 17 judgment or claim is pending shall not be counted toward any period of limitation under this 18 subsection.”) (emphasis added); Duncan v. Walker, 533 U.S. 167, 181-82 (2001) (holding 19 that a federal action is not an “application for State post-conviction or other collateral 20 review” within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2)).

21 In sum, Petitioner filed the instant Petition on January 7, 2013, 3 years, 5 months, and 22 24 days after the 1-year limitations period expired on July 15, 2009. The Petition is therefore 23 untimely.

24 The Ninth Circuit recognizes that the AEDPA’s limitations period may be equitably 25 tolled because it is a statute of limitations, not a jurisdictional bar. See Calderon v. United 26 States Dist. Ct. (Beeler), 128 F.3d 1283, 1288 (9th Cir. 1997), overruled in part on other 27 grounds by Calderon v. United States Dist. Ct. (Kelly), 163 F.3d 530, 540 (9th Cir. 1998).
28 Tolling is appropriate when “extraordinary circumstances’ beyond a [petitioner’s] control

1 make it impossible to file a petition on time.” Id.; see Miranda v. Castro, 292 F.3d 1063, 2 1066 (9th Cir. 2002) (stating that “the threshold necessary to trigger equitable tolling [under 3 AEDPA] is very high, lest the exceptions swallow the rule”) (citations omitted). “When 4 external forces, rather than a petitioner’s lack of diligence, account for the failure to file a 5 timely claim, equitable tolling of the statute of limitations may be appropriate.” Miles v.
 6 Prunty, 187 F.3d 1104, 1107 (9th Cir. 1999). A petitioner seeking equitable tolling must 7 establish two elements: “(1) that he has been pursuing his rights diligently, and (2) that some 8 extraordinary circumstance stood in his way.” Pace, 544 U.S. at 418. Petitioner must also 9 establish a “causal connection” between the extraordinary circumstance and his failure to file 10 a timely petition. See Bryant v. Arizona Attorney General, 499 F.3d 1056, 1060 (9th Cir.
 11 2007).

12 Referring to the timeliness of his petition, Petitioner asserts that “under the 13 independent and adequate state ground rule the default in question involves issues of federal 14 law interwoven with state law; and the procedural default in question has not been regularly 15 and consistently applied. Sufficient cause and prejudice exist which would result in a 16 fundamental miscarriage of justice.” (Doc. 1 at 10.) Petitioner’s assertion appears to address 17 principles of exhaustion and procedural default rather than the timeliness of the instant 18 habeas petition.

19 Accordingly, Petitioner has not proffered any extraordinary circumstance that would 20 justify equitable tolling or demonstrated that an external impediment hindered the diligent 21 pursuit of his rights. And, in any event, Petitioner’s pro se status, indigence, limited legal 22 resources, ignorance of the law, or lack of representation during the applicable filing period
 23 do not constitute extraordinary circumstances justifying equitable tolling. See, e.g., Rasberry 24 v. Garcia, 448 F.3d 1150, 1154 (9th Cir. 2006) (“[A] pro se petitioner’s lack of legal 25 sophistication is not, by itself, an extraordinary circumstance warranting equitable tolling.”).
 26 Moreover, to the extent that any of Petitioner’s contentions could be construed as an attempt 27 to attribute his untimeliness to the ineffectiveness of his PCR counsel, the record 28 demonstrates that even after PCR counsel notified the state court that she did not find any

1 colorable claims for relief, Petitioner failed to pursue his claims in a timely fashion.
2 Specifically, the state court granted Petitioner a 45-day extension to file a pro per PCR
3 petition and advised him that failure to do so may be grounds for dismissal. (Exh. L.)
4 Petitioner failed to file a PCR petition by the extended deadline. (Exh. M.) Then, only after 5 waiting six weeks past the extended deadline wherein Petitioner failed to file anything, did 6 the state court dismiss Petitioner's PCR proceeding. (Exh. M.) Petitioner does not claim that 7 he failed to receive notice of this deadline, nor does he provide any excuse for failing to 8 timely file his PCR petition.

9 Accordingly, Petitioner is not entitled to equitable tolling and his habeas petition is 10 untimely.

CONCLUSION

Having determined that Petitioner's habeas petition is untimely, the Court will recommend that Petitioner's Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus (Doc. 1) be denied and dismissed with prejudice.

15 IT IS THEREFORE RECOMMENDED that Petitioner's Petition for Writ of 16 Habeas Corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254 (Doc. 1) be DENIED and DISMISSED WITH 17 PREJUDICE;

18 IT IS FURTHER RECOMMENDED that a Certificate of Appealability and leave 19 to proceed in forma pauperis on appeal be DENIED because the dismissal of the Petition is 20 justified by a plain procedural bar and jurists of reason would not find the procedural ruling 21 debatable.

22 This recommendation is not an order that is immediately appealable to the Ninth 23 Circuit Court of Appeals. Any notice of appeal pursuant to Rule 4(a)(1), Federal Rules of 24 Appellate Procedure, should not be filed until entry of the district court's judgment. The 25 parties shall have fourteen days from the date of service of a copy of this recommendation 26 within which to file specific written objections with the Court. See 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); 27 Rules 72, 6(a), 6(b), Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Thereafter, the parties have fourteen 28 days within which to file a response to the objections. Failure timely to file objections to the

1 Magistrate Judge's Report and Recommendation may result in the acceptance of the Report
2 and Recommendation by the district court without further review. See United States v.
3 Reyna-Tapia, 328 F.3d 1114, 1121 (9th Cir. 2003). Failure timely to file objections to any 4 factual determinations of the Magistrate Judge will be considered a waiver of a party's right 5 to appellate review of the findings of fact in an order or judgment entered pursuant to the 6 Magistrate Judge's recommendation. See Rule 72, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.
